

MARATHON SWIM ENTRY TRAINS HERE IN THE DELAWARE

"Bill" Coughlin Leaves Anchor Yacht Club for Swim To Philadelphia

STARTS AT 8.53 A. M.

Swam from Trenton to Bristol Last Sunday; 40 Miles Next Sunday

"Bill" Coughlin, one of the young men preparing for the Wrigley marathon swims next month, dove into the waters of the Delaware at the Anchor Yacht Club, here, this morning at 8.53 o'clock, in the start of a swim to Philadelphia.

Coughlin, who last Sunday swam from Trenton to Bristol, is training for the Wrigley marathons, which will take place at Toronto, Canada, on August 28th, being Philadelphia's only entrant. The prize to be bestowed upon the winner of the marathons is $25,000.

The swim being engaged in today by the young man is approximately 25 miles. This distance was covered last year on an up-river swim by Coughlin. The time required for the trip to Bristol at that time was four hours and thirty-five minutes.

Accompanying the swimmer is John J. Fitzpatrick, of Philadelphia, his trainer. Fitzpatrick also acted as trainer for John "Freckles" Devine, world famous boy swimmer, who last summer made the distance from Philadelphia to Chester in a remarkably short period. Another one who will make the swim with Coughlin is "Bob" Rogers, captain of the life guards at the Funtal Pool, Somerton. Rogers is noted as a diver.

In a boat near the swimmers during the entire distance will be "Doc" Nolan, manager of the marathon entrant, and Vernon Platt, proprietor of the Funtal Pool. By those in the boat Coughlin will be fed chocolate during the five or six hour swim.

Coughlin is a former Bristolian, having lived here for a five-year period during the World War. With his parents he resided on Wilson avenue, and attended St. Mark's Parochial School. His present address is 4633 Hurley street, Philadelphia.

On Wednesday, Coughlin swam from Trenton to Bristol, and next Sunday he plans to make the entire distance from Trenton to Philadelphia, 40 miles, passing by Bristol at about noon. It is expected that several newspaper men and photographers will occupy boats accompanying the swimmer down the Delaware at that time.

Today's swim is to be terminated at the Chestnut street wharf.

MAY ADD THIRD WEEK TO ENDURANCE FLIGHT

O'Brine and Jackson Near To Close of Second Week of Sustained Flying

ALL "O. K." AT 307TH HR.

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—(INS)—Near the close of their second week of sustained flight, Forest O'Brine and Dale Jackson today flew on in their St. Louis Robin, bent on adding a third week to their endurance record.

Gliding their 307th hour at 2.17 a. m. (C. S. T.), they gave the "O. K." signal with flashlights to watchers below on Lambert Field. Earlier they descended from the clouds and swooped to within seventy-five feet of the observation tent to wave to their wives. The women returned the greeting and send notes up to their husbands by a refueling plane.

Mrs. O'Brine and Mrs. Jackson would not tell the contents of the notes, but the former, winking at Mrs. Jackson, grinned and said: "They'll be tickled to see what we wrote."

Carrying an extra heavy load of gasoline and oil, the Robin had enough fuel to last until tonight.

"Don't expect us down for a week," said the Robin airmen at the close of their thirteenth night. "Our motor is running like a race horse. Guess we'll have to hog-tie it."

Eager to hang up a mark that will endure, the pilots said they would not land while the Houston, Tex., flyers, Joe Glass and G. L. Loomis, trailing 103 hours behind them, remained up. "They might pass us," commented O'Brine, "and that would never do."

Another endurance plane, the Minnesok, is flying over Minneapolis but has not attained the 100-hour mark.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS ADDRESSED BY BOSWELL

Methodist Preacher is Speaker At Tri-State Conference In Ocean Grove

MRS. COLVIN PRESIDES

With Mrs. Mamie Colvin, president of New York Women's Christian Temperance Union, presiding on the second day of the tri-state W. C. T. U. conference at Ocean Grove Camp Meeting, Rev. Charles M. Boswell, D. D., president of the Camp meeting, extended greetings.

Rev. Boswell said in part "There is great encouragement in the changes in the social life in Washington and other large cities. Where wine was formerly served at social functions, today other beverages are used."

The British Embassy in Washington, it was stated, is dry—likewise the American Embassy in England today.

Miss L. Long, publicity director of Pennsylvania, said the present department in the W. C. T. U. were formed in 1880. The L. T. L. came into existence in 1892, and the first convention at which Frances Willard presided was held in 1880.

The "Do Everything" policy was adopted because the effects of alcohol were found in so many lines of work, and as Mrs. Wood remarked at the conference, women have different capabilities, and the heads must be selected to fit the needs of the department.

Where unions meet once a month the numerous "Red Letter Days" can be worked in in connection with other ready made meetings, it was stated and create a wider interest.

In the conference Mrs. Beach, of New York, said the spirit of America says, "Go on, follow the call of the Pilgrim Fathers, press forward until we reach the heights."

It was brought out that 212 leading artists, writers and cartoonists have been bought to ridicule the 18th amendment by the publishers of the remaining 16 per cent of the newspapers that are employed by the wets.

Among the 90 or more present from Pennsylvania on Wednesday were 40 from Bucks county. Mrs. H. G. Miller, Mrs. M. M. Kester, Mary H. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Harper, Miss Gladys Harper, and H. Griffin Miller, were among those who attended the banquet on Monday evening.

Mrs. Kester who represented the Southeastern group of Pennsylvania unions, was one of the ushers during the conference.

Odd Fellows to Meet At Langhorne Tonight

Members of Hopkins Lodge, No. 87, I. O. O. F., tonight will meet at Washington Hall, Radcliffe and Walnut streets, at eight o'clock and go to Langhorne where they will attend a meeting of the lodges of the eastern district of Bucks County. There are eight lodges in the district comprising those located at Langhorne, Hulmeville, Newtown, Richboro, Jamison, Yardley, New Hope and Bristol.

A special feature has been arranged in the way of a visitation from the band of Medina Sanatorium, Order of Samaritans. It is expected that the band will be accompanied by 50 members of the order and if the group arrives in time there will be a short street parade.

Bethel Church Members Hold A Picnic Today

A picnic is to be held on the lawn of the Bethel A. M. E. Church this afternoon, and music is to be furnished by the Elks' Band of Burlington, N. J., under the leadership of Professor Percy Waters.

At 6.30 tonight there will be a parade from the church to the baseball field where there will be a game between the Bristol and Langhorne teams. Following the return of the parade there will be a grand musical entertainment at the church by the band.

The Boy Scouts of other towns have been invited to participate in the parade, and the women of the church are providing for a bountiful supply of food.

TELLS ROTARIANS OF EDUCATIONAL AIMS OF THE FUTURE

Principal Warren P. Snyder Gives Very Interesting Address

STRESSES PHYSICAL SIDE

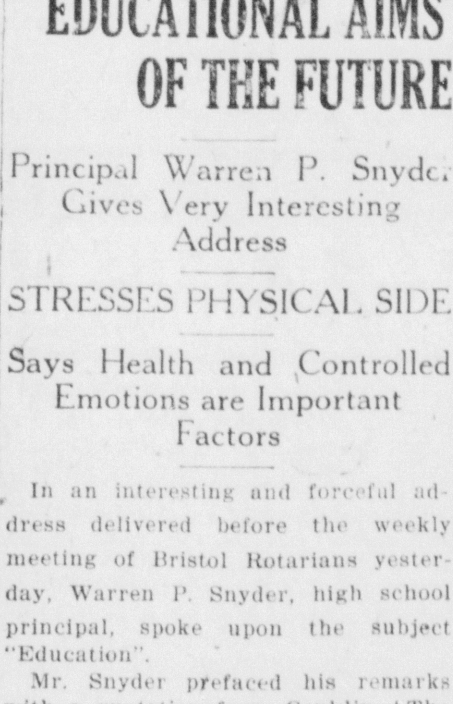

Says Health and Controlled Emotions are Important Factors

In an interesting and forceful address delivered before the weekly meeting of Bristol Rotarians yesterday, Warren P. Snyder, high school principal, spoke upon the subject "Education."

Mr. Snyder prefaced his remarks with a quotation from Conklin, "The development of a human being, a personality, from a germ cell is the climax of all wonders."

The speaker emphasized four outstanding aims to be accomplished by education in order to produce a well-rounded, liberal-minded and fully-developed individual.

MANY AUTO TOURS OUT OF PORTLAND

Maine City Pivot from Which Numerous Side Trips Can Be Made

RADIUS OF 100 MILES

Almost every motorist in planning a vacation trip seeks a central point from which attractive and interesting side journeys can be taken. Portland, Maine, occupies such a strategic position on the highly scenic section of the New England coast. To this delightful summer playground the Keystone Automobile Club has mapped a tour, that includes within a radius of 100 miles a greater variety of delightful features than exist within any similar area in the United States.

"Portland is a pivot from which numerous side trips can be taken, says Russell B. Carty, representative of the club. "It contains streams and mountains. Through this section, offering almost every recreation and sport known to mankind, are a network of excellent highways that makes motor ing a real pleasure."

Approaching Portland from the south the tourists pass through the shore resorts of York Beach, the Kennebunk, Biddeford Pool, Old Orchard and Punt's Neck, all ideal watering places. Northward lies Sebago Lake, Naples and the Bridgeton region with its lakeland and trout streams. Above Portland on the Atlantic coast are Casco Bay, Penikese and Christmas Cove, while further north the journey leads through the Penobscot Bay section to Bangor, Ear Harbor and Mt. Desert Island.

From Bristol pass through Langhorne, Newtown and Buckingham to Doylestown. From there the tour leads north over national route 611 to East Stroudsburg where national route 269 is met and followed to Port Jervis, N. Y. Over national route 6 the journey continues through the Harriman State Park and across the Bear Mountain Bridge to Peekskill. Here the same route leads through Danbury to Hartford. Northward national route 5 is used to Greenfield where a right turn leads over state route 2 through Fitchburg to Littleton Common. From here state routes 119 and 125 are followed into Newburyport. Northward through Hampton, national route 1 is followed into Portsmouth, N. H.

From Portsmouth a long bridge over the Piscataqua River acts as a gateway to the beautiful Maine seacoast. At York Corners a right turn over a state road leads to York Harbor and along a two mile stretch of strand to York Beach. Returning to national route 1, the tourists pass Ogunquit Beach to Elms where state route 294 is followed through the Kennebunk region to Biddeford Pool. From here state route 298 is used to Biddeford, where the national route is again met and followed to Saco. From here a side trip leads to Old Orchard. Thru Pine Point, state route 295 leads to West Scarborough and the national route 1 is used to Scarborough from where a side trip can be made to Punt's Neck.

A winding road follows the seacoast through Higgins Beach and Cape Cottage into Portland. This beautiful city, the birthplace of the poet Longfellow, lies in the center of historic country dating back to Indian tribal days. Penikese Island and Cushing Isle offer interesting side trips to picturesque old meeting places of the Indians. Sebago Lake and the Bridgeton lake sections are reached over state route 18 from Portland. Another attractive side trip to lake and hill country can be made over state route 26, through Sabbath Day Lake, Poland Springs to Norway and Bryants Ponds.

EXCHANGE CLUB MEETS WITH NEWTOWN GROUP

"Ladies' Night" Enjoyed At Hillwood Inn, Trenton, Last Evening

COVERS SPREAD FOR 86

The Bristol Exchange Club held a "ladies' night" last evening at Hillwood Inn, Trenton. A delegation from the recently organized club at Newtown were present as guests of the Bristol Club. At the dinner which preceded the festivities, covers were spread for 86 persons.

Asa Fabian, the president of the Bristol Exchange Club, made a few introductory remarks, after which he called on Spurgin Sigley, of Bethlehem, the state president of the Federation of Exchange Clubs of Pennsylvania, to make a few remarks. Mr. Sigley explained the work which was being done by "Exchange," and called attention to the national convention, which is to be held at Jacksonville, Fla., this coming October.

Rev. James J. Bingham, district president, was next introduced and he dwelt upon the progress being made by "Exchange," and told of the recent organization of new clubs at North Philadelphia, West Philadelphia, Frankford and Darby. Rev. Bingham said his district now comprised more clubs, than any other districts in the State.

Following the dinner, the Exchangeites and their ladies enjoyed themselves according to their own inclinations. Some danced, others played cards, while others found pleasure, gathering in a group on the spacious porch. It was near midnight when the function ended and such a good time was enjoyed by all, that the committee contemplates holding another similar function in the future.

Father of Bristol Man Is Claimed by Death in Italy

Word has been received by Luigi Galzerano, Jefferson avenue, of the death of his father, Vincenzo Galzerano, in Italy, on July 23.

The late Mr. Galzerano was 76 years of age, and had suffered for four years as the result of a stroke. He is survived by his wife, Theresa; a daughter, Angeline, of Italy; three sons, Luigi and Alphonse, of Bristol, and Gaetano, who is employed by the immigration department of the Italian Government in Italy.

High mass was said and burial made in the family mausoleum in St. Mary's Cemetery in Castelnuovo, Cilenti.

THREE SUDDEN DEATHS OCCUR NEAR HERE; BRISTOL MAN DIES FOLLOWING AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT AT LANGHORNE

Hugh Haire Succumbs to Internal Injuries; Was Pinned Beneath Car—Mrs. Theresa Murphy Dies Suddenly at Edgely—Colored Man Found Dead Along Pennsylvania Railroad.

Three sudden deaths occurred in this vicinity since late yesterday afternoon. A Bristol man was killed in an auto crash at Langhorne, a woman died suddenly of apoplexy at Edgely and a colored man was found dead along the P. R. R. at South Bristol.

Hurled from an automobile as he was returning from his day's work near Langhorne, Hugh Haire, 49, 321 Cleveland street, sustained breaks in all ribs on the right side of his body and internal injuries, dying at the Harriman Hospital last night at six o'clock, a short time after the accident occurred.

Haire, who was an occupant of a small coupe, driven by "Barney" Devine, of South Langhorne, was pinned under the car when a collision occurred with another machine, much weight of the vehicle resting upon his chest.

Michael Lahman, 1666 South Clinton street, Trenton, N. J., driver of the second car, a small truck, was enroute through Langhorne over Pine street, traveling in the direction of Newtown, at about 4.45. The Devine car was being operated on the Woodbourne Road to Langhorne. The accident occurred at the corner of Pine and Winchester avenues, Langhorne, the coupe being stuck in the rear and thrown against the curb. In the impact the door flew open and Haire was hurled from the machine, a portion of the car resting upon his chest.

The injured man was rushed to the Harriman Hospital here, where he died.

Lahman was taken into custody by Constable Samuel Linington, of Langhorne, and is now in the county jail at Doylestown, to await the result of the coroner's inquest. Devine was released under $500 bail as a material witness. Accompanying Lahman at the time was his mother.

Lahman was unhurt, and the only injuries sustained by Devine were minor cuts.

SNOOK DEFENSE BECOMES MORE COMPLICATED NOW

Tedious Task of Selecting The Jury is Resumed as Court Opens Today

EMPHASIZE DOPE ANGLE

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—Dr. James H. Snook's defense in the slaying of Miss Theora Hix, beautiful young university co-ed, is gradually becoming more complicated. It became evident today as the tedious task of selecting the jury was resumed that to his claim of "self defense" and temporary "emotional insanity" he will add the plea that on the night of the crime she administered to him a "love potion."

Aphrodisiacs, was the word used by Judge John F. Seidel, counsel for Dr. Snook, in designating the particular kind of drug that it will no doubt be alleged, was taken by the defendant on the night of June 13 last when, in a frenzy of emotion, he battered the girl into unconsciousness with a hammer and then slit her throat with a pen knife to relieve her suffering."

In questioning one of the tentatively accepted woman jurors, Miss Edith Dysinger, a nurse, Seidel bluntly asked her: "Do you know what aphrodisiacs are?" and when the stout, middle-aged nurse replied that she did not, the portly attorney for the defense volunteered the explanation that "they are potions which are said to stimulate sexual excitement in human beings."

Emphasis on the "dope" angle was laid by Seidel in interrogating jurors. Would they be prejudiced against Snook if it developed that he and his co-ed paramour "had taken drugs together to determine the human reaction?" he asked. Repeatedly he warned the jurors that drug stimulation and "illicit sexual relations" are going to play an important part in this trial.

When court was resumed today every seat in the jury box was filled with the exception of Seat Number Two which stood empty as a result of exercise by the defense of its first peremptory challenge. The state already has used one of its four peremptory challenges. There remains fifteen peremptory challenges for the use of the defense, if they desire.

Mrs. James H. Snook, wife of the defendant, an enigmatic figure in this drama, again remained away from the courtroom, although she has assured her husband that she is standing by him loyally. She told an interviewer at her home where she is in seclusion that Dr. Snook was "always so kind—so thoughtful—so considerate—so generous."

NEWSPAPERS ARE GROWING

Seven New York City newspaper publishers were interviewed a few days ago on the subject of the increase in newspaper circulation, which has so multiplied in recent years as to force itself upon the public's attention.

An unusual number of important news events, improvements in the quality of newspapers, a widespread growth in popular education, an extension of interests on the part of newspaper readers, and a growing practice of reading from three to five newspapers a day, instead of one or two, are some of the reasons ascribed for the general increase in circulation.

The public is more interested in newspapers for two reasons. Comparison of the papers of today with those of 20 years ago will suffice to show why those of today attract more readers. And it is evident that the masses are more alert, more interested in public affairs and current events, and more consistent readers than ever in the past. This growing intelligence of the public is reflected in the tremendous sales of books on history, science, philosophy and biography. Americans wish to be informed as well as amused.

Competition has forced publishers to produce better newspapers. Each publisher has striven to give readers greater value. Today newspapers are better printed and easier to read. And circulation managers have procured new outlets and devised ingenious methods of delivery to make their papers accessible to greater numbers. Another considerable factor in the increased circulation, especially in cities having two or more newspapers, is the fact that even among those who, in the past, have been content with the frothier types of papers, there is a developing interest in the more serious, general news of the day which prompts them, even while adhering to their first newspaper love, to supplement their reading with another paper devoting more space to solid reading and informative news.

DEFERRED PROFITS

Experience rarely gives up its full profit in the first flush of the event. It leaves its mark and impression, with recollections of pain or pleasure, but with these its work for good or evil is by no means over.

The mind takes hold on experience in the calm of reflection and determines what is to become of it. It comes to judgment against the accusation of old convictions or prejudices, against fixed habits of mind and codes of right and wrong. At the same time new ideas are gathered to it, so that a past experience may become a stepping-stone to better breadth of understanding, sympathy or self-comprehension.

Experience that remains undigested by second thought will leave no more than a scar of regret or an isolated memory that is gone and will at last be forgotten. It is a part of human responsibility to make experience yield more profits than these. Every important experience should become a foothold for progress into wisdom, the wisdom that is compounded of conscious strength, humility and good intention.

People had sex appeal in the old days, too, but the neighbors said they were just full of the devil.

SYNOPSIS
"Welcome Home," a musical comedy trying out on the road, is stranded. Willie Durant, the financial backer, is friendly with Nita French, the star, but, strangely enough, refuses to put up any more money. Behind Nita's back he is attentive to Kitty, the check room girl with stage aspirations, and induces her father, "Dad" Malone, stage doorman, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, the head usher, to invest all their savings in the piece. Jerry Connolly, the manager, is unable to pay salaries. Sam Bloom, scenery builder, comes to take away the sets, but Sarah Bogardy, the comedienne, momentarily dissuades him.

CHAPTER III—Continued
"Compared to me he's on fire," Sam turned on his heel and headed for the stage door.
"Now look here, Sam," Jerry caught hold of the man's arm.
Sam shook him off. "Try Wall Street. That's headquarters for suckers."
Sam continued on his way, leaving Jerry to stand staring after him thoughtfully. He must do something, and that something had to be done quickly. Perhaps he could talk to Nita and see if she wouldn't try to use her influence on Durant. It was a funny thing, he reflected, that Durant should refuse to put any more money in the show, especially with Nita as the star. That was one of the reasons Nita had been given so many song numbers.

Rave Notices Are Showgirls' Delight

bers. Not that she couldn't, actually put them over, but a younger, newer face might have been a little more attractive in the role that called for pulsating youth. He shrugged his shoulders. Anyhow, Nita was in the piece! He started towards her.

A figure in orange that swung ludicrously about revealing ruffled bloomers flashed by him. Sarah Bogardy, the comedienne, sent him a smile from a mouth that was too large to be exactly pretty, and hurried into the wings. Jerry shook his head. No use trying to see Nita now. Once Sarah got into the wings the two would immediately start one of their cat-and-dog battles, and when Nita went into battle—Jerry shuddered. That was part of the trouble. Everybody was on edge, nervous, uncertain as to the future.

"Miss French, I've asked you and asked you and asked you to take your suit cases and things out of my dressing room. I shan't ask you again," Jerry could hear Sarah already beginning to upset Nita.

"Can I depend on that," Nita retorted, her eyes flashing fire.

"I certainly don't intend to work with you any longer," came the reply, "I won't stand it! I won't!"

"Don't hysterics me, darling. I'm a woman, myself," Nita cried.

"I hope you have gallstones," Sarah called, and then Jerry seized her arm and pulled her back as Nita turned, hand upraised, as though about to slap Sarah's face.

"Oh my darling, how sweet, how very sweet it is to have you back," it was Nita's voice coming from the stage, as she softly twisted her arms about Harold Astor's neck.

"Do you remember when we were just little children playing together along the levee?"

"Do you remember that game we used to play, the game of pretend," Harold was breathing gently the cue for the on-coming song. The orchestra took up the melody.

"Games we played when we were little children. Still seem nice somehow. After all we're only little children. Though we're grown up now."

"Cat!" Nita's voice carried off into the wings as she neared the stage proscenium. Turning her back on the audience she glared at the belligerent Sarah.

"Come, dear, and wander through the land of Let's Pretend. Away out yonder where the Springtime knows no end."

Nita was crooning softly as she swayed gently back and forth, a beatific smile lighting her face. She gazed into Harold Astor's eyes as though he were a god descended from Olympus.
"Just as a child would, let's make believe."
We're in the wildwood, dreaming, Knighthood was in flower. You'll find no sorrow there 'cause everyone's your friend."
"I'll throw every one of those trunks out," Sarah began from the wings.
"Just you dare!" Nita whispered savagely.
"And each to-morrow there you'll find the rainbow's end."
Jerry caught Sarah's arm and dragged her swiftly away.

CHAPTER IV.

"Strike!"
As the curtain fell with a dull thud the swift rush of prop-boys, carpenters, electricians back and forth across the stage began. Hammering, pounding, grating of wood against wood as the scenery collapsed, folded up and moved back against the walls, methodically. As though a miniature earthquake had rocked a painted town, houses and streets were swallowed up and new vistas of gardens, homes and greenery were belched forth, teetering uncertainly for a moment and then settling into a semblance of concrete order.

Intermingling odors of powder, perfume and warm, damp flesh filled the air. Show girls dashed by, wrenching off their clothes as they ran to make a quick change. Flashes of bare, moving legs, bright costumes, garish paste jewels, made moving spots of color and light against the dull drab walls. Out in front of the curtain the dancing feet of the Dorsey twins pattered and clogged to the rhythm of low-down blues.

"Well, I see you found him, Mr. Bloom," Jimmy came running through the stage box into the wings, almost upsetting the retreating figure of Sam Bloom.

"Yep, he found me," Jerry nodded wearily. "He wants to attach the box office or take the scenery."

"Ah, gee, Mr. Bloom, you couldn't do a thing like that," Jimmy gasped. "Why, we got a great show here. It's a new idea. It's wonderful! You just look at it once and you'll see."

"I'm through arguing," Bloom grunted, trying to pull away from Jimmy's clutching fingers. "I'll take out every stick of scenery as soon as my trucks get here."

Jerry shook his head hopelessly. He'd messed things up for fair now, he told himself bitterly. Why had he had to tell Sam Bloom that Durant was through with the show. Perhaps he could have stalled Sam along for awhile at least. It must have been the strain of trying to save the show that was beginning to tell. Perhaps Durant would come through all right. Why hadn't he waited until the backer had come in. He'd talk him into paying the bills once he arrived.

"Oh, hello, Mr. Bloom! Hello, hello, hello!" Sarah's strident voice cut short the manager's meditations and caught Bloom's attention. "Did you hear my laugh? Wasn't it simply marvelous. Look at the notices I've been getting." Sarah dived down into the bosom of her dress and drew forth a newspaper clipping. Before anyone could stop her she began to read.

"With the exception of Sarah Bogardy's off-stage laugh, Jerry Connolly's new musical venture is a good, clean show. Man and boy, we've heard many feminine laughs but never one which seems to promise so much." Sarah gave a reproduction of the laugh that had caused such critical comment.

"We predict a very exciting future for Miss Bogardy," she continued, "and hope to see more of her. Our 'phone number is Market 3568. Ask for Jack.' Isn't that sweet," the comedienne demanded.

"That's a great notice," Bloom agreed, trying to edge away. "Well, sorry, folks, but I've got to go. Going to 'phone for the trucks."

Jimmy looked at Jerry, horror stamped on his boyish face, but before the manager could raise his voice in protest Sarah had caught Bloom's arm and was talking at him, her words tumbling out, staccato, like the popping of a machine gun.

"Now, Sammy," she dragged him toward the wings. "I haven't seen you for days and days. I won't let you run away. Come on and watch the show. You'll like it. I'll stay right here with you until I go on. This next is my big scene."

"Nope, I've got important business to attend to." Sam tried to withdraw Sarah's hand from his arm.

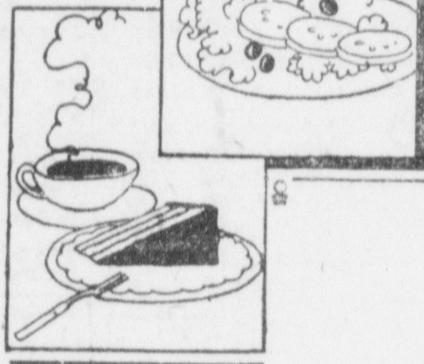

"Go on Sam," Jerry put in eagerly. "Take a look at the show. You'll enjoy it."

Northward along the shore of Casco Bay the tour winds over national route 1 to Bath where a right turn over state route 209 leads to the famous Pop-ham Point. From Bath national route 1 passes through Wiscasset to North Edgecomb where another side trip leads to Boothbay Harbor. Returning to the national route the journey enters Damariscotta where state route 130 leads through Rockland and the Camden Hills, along the shores of the beautiful Penobscot Bay to Bangor. From here side trips lead to Bar Harbor and Mt. Desert Island. The trip homeward can be made over the same highways.

How's this for a hot-weather dinner?

One of these evenings, when you're exhausted from the heat and nothing tastes good, how would you like to sit down to a dinner like this? An ice-cold fruit cup, jellied chicken and ham, a salad of crisp lettuce with a stuffed tomato in aspic. And, for dessert, a strawberry sundae.

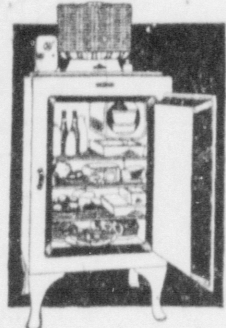

Tempting, isn't it? And so pleasantly easy to prepare. Then your General Electric Refrigerator will do the rest.

Fifty degrees is accepted by scientists as the "danger point" in the preservation of food. When the temperature rises even a degree or two above that, bacteria multiply, foods become unsafe to eat—a menace to health. In the General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is automatically kept several degrees below fifty—always.

Now, in addition to all its previously proved superiorities, General Electric offers an all-steel warp-proof cabinet! There are now more than 300,000 General Electric Refrigerator users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs.

Prices on the new all-steel models start at $215 at the factory. See them at our display rooms.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time over the N. B. C. network of 42 stations.

TOASTIES
The Wake-up Food
gives you new energy
Quick

NO wonder it's called the Wake-up Food! This crisp, good-to-eat breakfast cereal, Post Toasties, turns so quickly into fresh, abundant energy to start the new day. There's rich energy stored up in those toasted flavory flakes, energy so easy to digest that your body quickly gets this rich supply of new vigor.

And energy is just half the reason why people eat it! The flavor is so delicious. —The sun-mellowed sweetness of choice white corn delicately flaked and toasted crackling-crisp.

Try it with milk and berries tomorrow morning! Don't forget—there's just one way to get the Wake-up Food. Ask your grocer for Post Toasties—in the red and yellow wax-wrapped package.

Daughter—Why, yes.

Father—He's after your money.

You Can't Get Big By Thinking Small
Have you stopped to think why some men are great

While other ones just stay small? The Big Men think big and then do big. It's just how you think—that's all!

If you think Success, you'll have Success.

Provided you also do.

And follow your thoughts with the kind of work

That is going to make it true.

But you can't get big by thinking small. And you can go only as far as your constant thoughts and daily deeds

For just as you think—YOU ARE

For the men who rise in the things that count

Have an inspiration true

And keep their thoughts on the goal ahead—

Then work with that end in view.

So watch your thoughts and make them fit

Whatever you'd like to see—

For as you think, you are bound to live.

So whatever you think—

YOU'LL BE!

Be sure you're right and then go ahead and tell the critics to seek a warmer climate.

Roll upward, roll upward, O Sox in thy flight.

And cover her knees again—just for tonight.

Some men would rather face an angry tiger than a woman who has gone into a grim silence.

Every dollar saved buys another stone in your fortress of independence.

"I've been thinking, my son, of retiring next year and leaving my business to you."

"There's no hurry, is there dad? You go ahead and work a few more years and then we can retire together."

A young lawyer, pleading his first case, had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a railroad company for killing twenty-four hogs. He wished to impress the jury with the magnitude of the injury and with the seriousness of the case, so he said:

"Twenty-four hogs, gentlemen. Twenty-four, exactly twice the number sitting there in the jury box!"

It can not be denied that every married person has taken at least one desperate chance with fate.

A business man succeeds in proportion to his ability to satisfy the desires of his customers.

Plenty of people have a good aim in life but a lot of them don't pull the trigger.

A short visit makes a long welcome.

Before the farmers strike we wish they'd try house-to-house canvassing in the city.

Every woman craves to be skinny in the right places and fat in the right places.

A few of the largest commercial-car fleet operators who use Atlantic Gasoline: Railway Express Agency, American Stores, A. & P. Stores, Baldwin Locomotive Works, Bell Telephone Co. of Pa., E. I. DuPont de Nemours Co., Fleischmann Co., H. J. Heinz Co., Mitten Management (busses and taxicabs), National Biscuit Co., Pennsylvania Railroad, Swift & Co., Vore Construction Co., Ward Baking Co., John Wanamaker, Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co.

IT'S "PROOF, NOT CLAIMS," that counts with these users of gasoline

LARGE commercial-car fleet operators don't guess about gasoline. They are not influenced by claims of some single prominent feature (which in most such "one-armed" gasolines is developed at the sacrifice of other equally necessary qualities).

The chief factors which govern the professional buyers' selection of a motor fuel are the proved efficiency and economy with which it does all the things it is called upon to do... plus the assurance that it will do them in motors of every type and age, day after day.

That's where these far-seeing business folks look for real value in a motor fuel! They keep records! They know their gasoline!

Wherever gasoline is bought on actual, studied proof of performance, Atlantic is almost invariably the first choice. The individual motorist who follows the judgment of those who have taken the trouble to find out, uses good judgment himself.

ATLANTIC

EXTRA-POWERED • NO EXTRA COST

Think of the new-type Atlantic as a strictly extra-powered gasoline. . . .
A clean gasoline, with no gummy valve-clogging or motor-harming substances. . . .
A complete-burning gasoline that leaves practically no carbon. . . .
A smooth-acting, correctly balanced gasoline. . . .
An alert gasoline that needs no second prodding by the starter and no coaxing on the getaway. . . .
Think of all these desirable features combined in a single motor fuel—and you'll readily understand why Atlantic Gasoline is the most thoroughly efficient and truly economical all-round motor fuel on the market—at any price!

Atlantic Paraffine Base Motor Oil

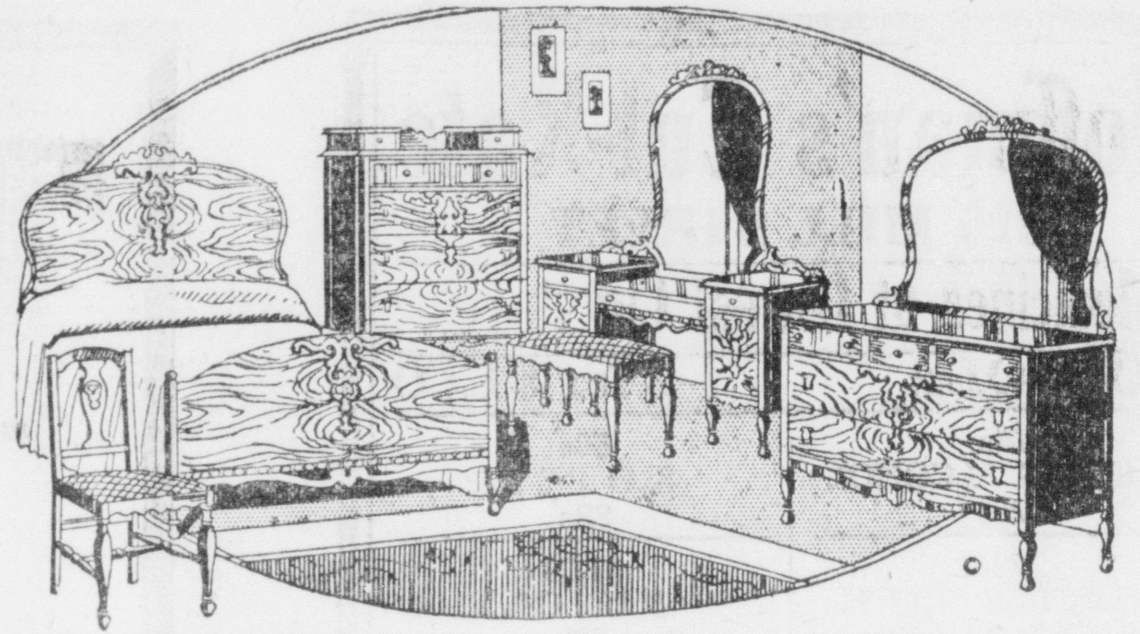

aviation tested—is an ideal companion for Atlantic Gasoline. It is the most efficient motor lubricant you can find!

AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

The opening of SPENCER'S AUGUST FURNITURE SALE this Saturday provides greater values than ever before. The variety, together with the moderate pricing, make it advisable to select your furniture now.

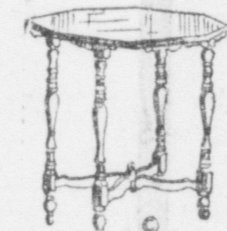

Inferiority sometimes parades falsely garbed as economy. A low price or an imaginary saving is all too likely to influence the purchase of home furnishings that will prove dear in the long run. In such cases regrets soon crowd the temporary savings from the memory of the buyer.

FINE BUTCHERS FOR SELLING DISEASED MEAT

Agents Arrest 30 in Effort to Break Up Violations
in State

INCLUDES VETERINARY

HARRISBURG, July 26.—Every possible effort is being made in the Commonwealth to stop the sale of diseased meat by the few unscrupulous butchers, according to officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. So far this year, more than 30 butchers and meat retailers in 15 counties have been prosecuted or are awaiting trial as a result of the work of agents of the bureau of animal industry.

One of the most serious cases in the history of the meat hygiene law enforcement work is now in the courts in southeastern Pennsylvania. In this case, two butchers and a veterinarian are being held under $1,000 bail each, charged with conspiracy to violate the law by slaughtering diseased cows and placing a fraudulent stamp of inspection on the meat. The dressed carcasses of seven cows which were extensively and visibly diseased with advanced tuberculosis, were found in a wholesale meat establishment in Philadelphia. The meat was traced back to Chester county, where the cows had been butchered. Before transporting the meat by truck to Philadelphia on a Sunday night, a fraudulent stamp of inspection had been placed on numerous parts of the carcasses. The meat was condemned and sent to a fertilizer factory. The defendants will be tried at the September term of the Chester county court and if found guilty, they may be liable to a penalty of $500 fine and two years' imprisonment.

One of the butchers involved in the foregoing case is also being held for trial on charges of preparing and selling tuberculous meat in Lancaster county and two other butchers are facing the same charges for similar offenses in Lancaster county.

Recently four Luzerne county butchers were each fined $250 and costs for having diseased meat in their possession for purposes of sale. Other similar cases involved a butcher and meat dealer in Northumberland county, a butcher in Northampton county, two butchers in Tioga county, and three retail meat dealers living in New York state who were peddling meat in Pennsylvania. A butcher in Lebanon county and another in York county were fined $100 and costs each recently on diseased meat charges. Two butchers in Delaware county were found with diseased meat in their possession and fined $400. A Chester county butcher has been arrested on a similar charge and the case is now awaiting trial.

About two months ago a butcher in Columbia county was convicted of selling unwholesome meat and was fined $200 in addition to costs amounting to $172. The proprietor of a large slaughtering house in Scranton was found in possession of a number of diseased cow carcasses and action is now pending in court. A butcher in Washington county and another in Clearfield county are under arrest for maintaining slaughter houses in a filthy condition.

Still other cases include four butchers in Mercer county who were fined a total of $400 and costs for selling immature veals, and two farmers in Wyoming county who were recently convicted on a charge of selling meat from a cow which was in a dying condition at the time of slaughter.

It was explained by the bureau of animal industry that the great majority of butchering establishments and meat markets meet fully the sanitary requirements of the law and offer for sale only wholesome meats about which the public need not have apprehension. The few unscrupulous butchers who knowingly violate the law and jeopardize the health of public are the ones who are being rounded up by state officials. Officials made it clear that the State will not tolerate any attempt by butchers to defeat or dodge the provisions of the meat hygiene law of the Commonwealth.

TULLYTOWN

On Tuesday evening all those who took part in the minstrel entertainment which was held in Monti's Hall, for the benefit of the Tullytown M. E. Church, enjoyed a chicken dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester I. Levergood, of Whites Corner. The home was attractively decorated, the color scheme of orange being carried out. Cut flowers also added to the decorations. Following the dinner a social time was enjoyed. Many games were played. Music, and dancing were also enjoyed.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carlen, Mrs. Elwood Walters, Sr., Mr. Carl Stroop, Mrs. Wright Carlen, Mrs. Howard Mitchell, and daughters, the Misses Thelma and Ruth, Mrs. Walter Strouse, Wallace Keeler, Mr. Carman DiCicco, Mr. Michael DiCicco, William Swangler, Frank Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Lester I. Levergood, and sons James and Jack.

Miss Alvi Atkinson, of Main street, and Frank Reed were recent visitors at Seaside Heights.

Messrs. John Coutchineal, and Augustine Coutchineal, of Summit, N. J., were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Coutchineal, of Manor avenue, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, and children, and Miss Ruth Johnson, of Morrisville, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson of Fallsington avenue.

The Rev. C. Clyde Levergood, pastor of the Tullytown M. E. Church has chosen for his topic for Sunday evening "Prohibition."

Mrs. Elris Wright, of Lovett avenue, was a visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Goodfellow, of Edgewater Park, N. J., Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Walters, Sr., of Fallsington avenue, were visitors in Philadelphia, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Menk, of Audubon, N. J., were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher A. Johnson, of Main street, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wright, and daughter, Miss Doris Wright and son Mr. John Wright, of Main street, and Mrs. Ida Wright, of the Oxford Road, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bachofer, of Media.

Mrs. Elris Wright, of Lovett avenue, Mrs. Christopher A. Johnson and daughters Sonia and Christine, of Main street, with Mrs. Walter C. Kissinger and Walter S. Johnson, Jr., of Bristol, motored to Philadelphia and visited the Zoological Garden, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mayberry, and family, of Main street, and Mr. and Mrs. William Baker, and Mrs. Joseph Elder, of Emille, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Foster, of Brown street.

JAPANESE EMPEROR A TEETOTALER

It is a little known fact, even within the confines of the Japanese Empire, that the Emperor is an absolute teetotaler. On the royal banquet tables not a drop of alcoholic beverages is set, and in addition, His Majesty is also a non-smoker. This good example of the Mikado already has begun to exert a benign influence over the youth of Japan, and many who have been addicted to pay homage at the shrine of Bacchus or to enjoy the fragrant weed have eschewed the practices altogether, these young men reading in the act of His Majesty an example to them all.

Three hundred special policemen, whose duty it is to guard the palace precincts, have taken the pledge, and the Emperor's example is giving the spreading temperance movement a tremendous impetus.—North China Herald.—(Adv.)

ST. ANN'S WINS ITS
3RD STRAIGHT VICTORY

(By T. M. Juno)

St. Ann's continued their winning streak, which now numbers three, by downing the Bristol Colored A. C. last evening on the "Saints" field. The final reading was 12 to 3.

A late start curtailed the game to five innings and the attendance was held down due to threatening weather. The "Saints" twelve-run orgy set a new mark for the other teams to aim at. In the last three games the Dorrairie streeters have sent a total of thirty-eight tallies across the plate.

Despite the fact that two of their stars, Fields and Cooper, were missing, the "Saints" began the fireworks earlier and slackened up later in the game to get in the required number of innings. The colored team could not get their regular roster on the field but managed to play nine men.

In winning his third straight victory, Tulio gave a masterful performance, holding the "Aces" to but four hits and setting down ten on strikes, an average of two an inning.

Taylor received ragged support but was hit hard in the pinches.

Darrah and Ringgold connected for the longest hits, triples. Roe and Tranotti led the "Saints."

The Independents, who rose to fifth place because of the colored team's defeat, plays the Emille nine tonight.

NEW KONJOLA IS HIGHLY PRAISED
BY BUSINESS MAN

Assistant Superintendent of Western & Southern Life
Insurance Co. Lauds
New Medicine

MR. CHARLES E. FELLOWS

"In my work it is necessary that I be out in all kinds of weather, at all times of the day and night, and a man must be in good physical condition to be able to hold up under the conditions under which I work," said Mr. Charles E. Fellows, assistant superintendent of the Erie branch of the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co., Erie, Penna. "My meals and rest were very irregular and as a consequence, my system was run down. I lacked my old-time pep and vitality."

"Three bottles of Konjola made my liver and kidneys function correctly. I eat, sleep, and feel better, and I have regained my old time pep and vigor. Konjola proved to be just the thing for me."

Konjola is sold in Bristol at Hoffman's Cut Rate store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. (Adv.)
